Description of Services

What Is It?

Since 1988, NationJob has been a leader in electronic recruitment. Before the internet was widely used by the public, NationJob informed job seekers of opportunities through a series of stand-alone computer kiosks strategically placed across the country and overseas. With the emergence of the World Wide Web, NationJob shifted its focus to the new technology and was one of the first job board domains secured on the internet. With that change, NationJob was able to expand their network and were among the first to offer services such as the technical agent and industry sites or 'niche' boards.

PJ Scout™

PJ Scout, standing for "Personal Job Scout", was the first technical recruiter available to job seekers. By saving their job search and asking PJ to "scout" jobs for them, job seekers are able to receive regular updates about new opportunities in their field without having to go through the search process each time - they simply sit back and wait for the opportunities to "fall in their lap"! Not only is PJ Scout the oldest technical recruiter on the internet, and one of the largest with over 1 million accounts, he is also the most trusted. Time after time NationJob receives accolades for the security and privacy that PJ Scout provides to job seekers.

Industry Job Network

NationJob.com generates cross-traffic that other sites cannot offer. A general job board, it attracts the broad audience that many employers are looking for. However, NationJob takes it one step further offering over 40 industry specific sites that are not only a part of the entire NationJob Network, but also stand-alone, appearing in organic online searches separate from the main site and attracting the specific viewers that other industry job boards produce.
